

RICCARDO PAOLO LIA

Associate professor in Veterinary Parasitology, Department of Veterinary Medicine, University of Bari (Italy).

Training Periods from 1990 to date: laboratory of veterinary parasitology, Veterinary Medicine, University of Bari (Italy).

Academic Employment Record: 1993, PhD in Parasitology and Parasitic Diseases; 1997, Specialized in Infectious Diseases, Prophylaxis and Police Employed in Veterinary Health. 2001 to date; Researcher of Veterinary Parasitology, Faculty of Veterinary Science, University of Bari.

Other activities: From 1994 to 2000, technician at the Department of Animal Health and Welfare, Faculty of Veterinary Medicine, University of Bari (Italy). From 2001 to 2016 researcher in veterinary parasitology.

Statement of track record: Research and teaching experience in parasitic diseases of pets and livestock in mediterranean areas (diagnosis and control). From 2015 to date she is member of the Scientific Committee of the PhD course in “Animal Health and zoonosis”.

His scientific output in Veterinary Parasitology to date consists of 96 peer-reviewed scientific articles in international journals and >220 refereed publications on Italian journals and presentations at National and International conferences; 4 book chapters and 1 documentaries of parasitology to implement learning and teaching. H index: 27; Citations: 1474 by 956 documents.

Areas of research specialisation: Diagnostic laboratory and morphological identification of helminths, ticks and sand-fly. His research interests include the study the arthropod-borne diseases.

(<https://www.scopus.com/authid/detail.uri?authorId=7003880241>).

ORCID: 0000-0001-7239-1694

Bari 24th January 2018

Prof. Riccardo Paolo Lia